BOOK RELEASE ANNOUNCEMENT:

I am delighted to announce the release of my first book, a fictional anthology, DEAD TREES: A Collection of Atmospheric Horror Shorts by David Cash. Released on October 25th 2025, this is a perfect compilation for horror fans looking to experience something new.

ABOUT THE BOOK:

Featuring seven stories across 150 pages, Dead Trees is inspired by the one-off television ghost stories and tales of dread from the seventies, eighties and nineties such as The Signalman, The Stone Tape and Ghostwatch. Another major influence is the Books of Blood series from Liverpool born author Clive Barker. Stories range from slow build tales of revenge and new takes on old urban myths to old fashioned ghost stories set against a contemporary backdrop.

The author also took much of his inspiration for locations within the book from around the community in which he grew up around the Wirral and also mid-Wales.

This book contains absolutely no AI in any way.

THE AUTHOR:

David Cash was born and raised on the Wirral, Merseyside. Despite struggling continuously with his mental health, he has written and presented his own radio show on Liverpool Community Radio called 'The How Very Interesting Radio Show' and co-presented others. He has written for local magazines, websites and YouTube mini-doc channel 'Micro Weird'. He is married with a stepson.
